Roumanians Take Teuton Positions In At River Region; Hard Fighting Is Continuing Throughout Galicia

In Volynia Both Sides Attack Heavily But Neither Seems Able to Make Gains — Artillery Operations Predominant in the Somme Region in France—French Take Small Wood While Violent Attack by Germans is Repulsed East of Berni-Santerre.

(By Morning Bulletin Special Wire)
LONDON, Oct. 16.—While both the Vienna and Berlin war offices announce merely a continuation of the fighting on the Transylvanian front between the Austro-German forces and the Roumanians, the Roumanian army headquarters reports that in the At River region the troops of King Ferdinand have occupied several positions held by the Teutonic allies. On all other sectors of this front, according to Bucharest, attacks were repulsed by the Roumanians, except in the Buzan Valley, where the Roumanians were compelled to withdraw slightly further south.

Hard fighting is going on from the west of Lutsk, through Galicia to the Carpathian mountains. In Volynia, despite fierce attacks by both sides, there seems to be a stalemate. Peirce reports that neither the Austro-Germans nor the Russians have been able to gain an advantage in Galicia, where battles have taken place along the Tarnopol-Krasna railway, east of Lemberg, and to the north of Stanislav.

Several small successes for the Austro-Germans have been attained in the Carpathian mountains.

The big guns of both sides on the Somme front in France did the greater part of the work today. To the south of the river, however, a small wood between Bemerot and Ablaincourt and 110 prisoners and three guns fell into the hands of the French. A violent counter-attack by the Germans east of Berni-Santerre was repulsed by the French.

On the Macledonian front the British troops have reached the village of Baruk, eight miles southwest of Penny-Hisar. Along the Cerna River and north of Nitje mountain forces of the entente allied troops attacked the Teutonic allies, but were repulsed.

British Report.
LONDON, Oct. 16.—The report that the losses suffered by the entente in attacks on Scheriden were not so heavy as was generally supposed, is confirmed by official communication from British headquarters. The British, including one officer, were left in the trench. Our losses were not heavy. In the neighborhood of Neville St. Vaast our heavy artillery fired mortar carried out an organized bombardment on the enemy and trench results seemed to be obtained.

Successful attacks were carried out by our aeroplanes yesterday, in conjunction with our artillery. The hostile battery position was completely destroyed, and many enemy troops were severely damaged. Bombs were dropped and an enemy aircraft was shot down upon transport material behind the enemy's lines with the result of great results.

Monday next the campaign starts for the Patriotic and Red Cross funds.

A Swiss sentinel has been killed by a stray bullet while on duty, the first, it is said, during the war. Consider on how many sides of that mountainous republic the war is raging the Swiss sentinels must be good loaders.

The Huns have pretty well conquered the Roumanians out of Transylvania, and at one point have invaded Roumanian territory. Unless the Russians can come to their relief our new allies are liable to think that they rushed into the war prematurely.

At Toledo, a party of ladies who are touring the country in Mr. Hughes' interests angrily denied the charge shouted at them that they were plutocrats and that rich people were financing their trip. "These are lies," the leader of the party snapped back at the "Kop," who said that the women would not take to politics.

A Montreal exchange notes that chess was sold in the county boards last week for more than twenty-two cents per board, yet the price of a good quality board is only a few cents. It is going to be the part of a Montreal overseas this year than last. Perhaps we have reached the stage where chess is being shipped out because Canadians cannot afford to eat it!

An exchange wants to know what Sir Sam Hughes will do when he finds that J. Wesley Allison is no longer an honorary supporter of the Canadian Red Cross. What will J. Wesley do? Sir Sam will be only too glad to drop J. Wesley into the sea of public falsehoods if J. Wesley will only stay dropped. But if J. Wesley demands that honorary colonelcy back, and threatens to talk if he does not get it, things may be awkward.

During recent operations in the Somme district the British came into possession of a document prepared by General Von Arnim, commanding the German forces in that district, in which he urges his men to economize their ammunition. Indignantly the British close to them the necessity of fighting their best, because he has not enough guns, aeroplanes and supplies, and those which he has are inferior to the British equipment. He adds the highly satisfactory assurance that his opponents will not use gas, and that, as a side-light on the present state of the enemy's munition supplies, it is very interesting, but it should not be made the basis for a general conclusion that he is running short of the essentials. A source in the district does not necessarily mean a general scarcity, and a general scarcity does not necessarily mean a general danger to the Allied cause today is not the enemy, but the notion that the enemy is "about all in." If we read his idea and go ahead on the supposition that he is well equipped for an indefinite time our shell will be very assured.

Repeal of the Lemieux Act. From the Winnipeg Telegram. It is rather to be regretted that the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress saw fit to pass a resolution demanding the repeal of the Lemieux Act. It is taken from the statute books, and if anything is to be repealed, it is the settlement of every dispute by a standing-fee between employer and employee? Which, if either, of these are organized labor desires?

"IN MEMORIAM." ("Tommy," killed in action at Ypres, 1915). Dead. What is death, with all its vaunted power? It rudely narrows us, old pat, 'tis true, but never can it bring forgetfulness. Do not, then, please, friendship, mean as much to you.

The flower you loved bring you again And I hear your dear voice in every word of mine, sweeter now than when we parted, because it speaks to me of you, and I still can feel your hand upon me. When, as in the days of old, you said, "I will be with you," I followed by lonely days, waiting for With hope and tears mingled, as I waited for you, I was pained by Just "killed in action," that was all I And your name came with many more, as I knew, I would that I had seen your face once before they told you in that far off Dead. What is death, with all its vaunted power? It rudely narrows us, old pat, 'tis true, but never can it bring forgetfulness. Do not, then, please, friendship, mean as much to you. Us to our loved and absent one again, in never ending days, "IN MEMORIAM."

Edmonton, October 12th, 1916.

"Facts Are Chicks." To the Bulletin: Please tell me where I can find the verse in which the "Facts are chicks" is used. General Sir Douglas Haig used the phrase "Facts are chicks" in his letter to the British Empire League, the cabal account of his speech being published in your paper. I had always believed that phrase to be one of Burke's, and I am sure that the British Empire League is the Scottish people's paper. I am, my dear Sir, yours truly, J. W. Scott, Edmonton.

They were so much afraid that the quiet life in their little American village would not be their lot that they went to a great deal of trouble to ascertain the truth. They learn that an old Scotchman, their mother, Lord Kilmour, is in America and intended to try to persuade Mrs. Gordon to return to England as his wife, and the reader became quite as much excited as the girls, breathing a sigh of relief when her decision is announced, that she cannot consider leaving her girls.
